

Children's Headache Training (CHaT)

This 1-day course has been developed by Paediatric Neurologists and Paediatricians with an expertise in headache with the aim of improving the knowledge and skills of health professionals who care for children and young people with headache.

It has been developed for:

- General Practitioners and GP trainees
- Consultant Paediatricians and Paediatric trainees
- Consultants in Paediatric Emergency Medicine and emergency medicine trainees
- Health professionals working within a pain service e.g. Psychologists
- Consultant Paediatric Neurologists and Paediatric neurology trainees

The course is delivered by 5-6 Paediatricians and Paediatric Neurologists with an expertise in headache. Like other BPNA courses, CHaT consists of lectures and small group interactive workshops.

This course is supplemented by the BPNA Distance Learning Unit 12: Headache for those who would like further training in headache.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

By the end of the course, participants will be able to:

- Diagnose secondary headaches and take initial steps in their management
- Diagnose and manage migraine, migraine variants and other primary headache types
- Know which elements of the history/examination mandate brain imaging and other tests
- Learn how to take a headache focused history and undertake a relevant examination
- Classify headache based on this information alone (reducing reliance on investigation)
- Learn about pathophysiology of headache

CPD POINTS

A certificate of attendance will be issued to you at the end of the day awarding 6 CPD points
